

Complete The Sentences With The Correct Indefinite Pronouns

Indefinite pronouns are used to refer to people, places, or things that are not specified.

Some of the common indefinite pronouns are:

- any (anyone, anybody, anything)
- every (everyone, everybody, everything)
- some (someone, somebody, something)
- no (no one, nobody)
- few
- several
- all

For example:

1. Can anyone (indefinite pronoun) guess the answer?
2. Everyone (indefinite pronoun) danced well at the party.

Fill in the blanks with the right indefinite pronoun. The first sentence has been done as an example.

1. Would you like to eat some samosas?
2. She wants _____ to listen to her.
3. Can _____ help me?
4. He invited _____ to the party.
5. There are only a _____ of us who went to school yesterday.
6. My mother asked if _____ of us would like to have cookies?
7. _____ wants to play outside in the sun.
8. Please ask _____ to clean their rooms.
9. I liked almost _____ in that store.

10. I can't find _____ in this box.
11. There were _____ butterflies in the garden.
12. _____ liked the Easter lunch.
13. Would you like to have _____ water?
14. There are _____ reasons to stay happy.
15. I kept the book on the table, but _____ took it from there.

