The below story is written in present tense, identify the verb forms and then rewrite the story in past tense.

My mother picks up the good old cloth bag and heads towards the main door. I stop her and ask if I can also come along, she smiles and says "of course you can". As we enter the market area, I see many stalls with fresh fruits and vegetables, the vendors shout on the top of their voices to attract customers. We then stop at the leafy vegetable vendor, and my mom starts to look for some spinach leaves and I too look for them. Just then, my eyes fall on the big hairy caterpillar on one of the spinach leaves. I shout and tell my mom, she then quickly drops the leaves. The vendor looks at the caterpillar as if it was a speck of dust, removes it with a twig and smashes it with one of his boots. Though the caterpillar looks scary for a little girl like me, I feel sorry for it.
