

What Determines A Child's Height

Primary Factors

Family history

Individual genetic changes

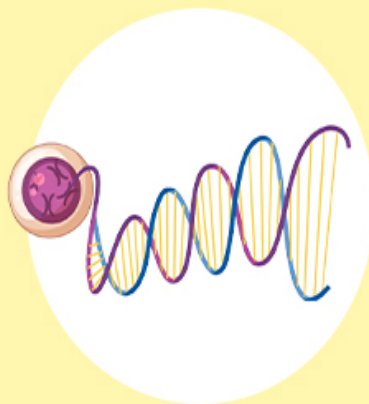

Puberty

Nutrition

Health Conditions

Chromosomal abnormalities

Reduced or excess growth hormone production

Chronic illnesses, such as arthritis

Underlying morbidities, such as digestive problems