

Major Fetal Developments

At 28 Weeks Of Pregnancy

The lungs become more developed and stronger to breathe outside the womb.

The skin starts to look better when lanugo and vernix start to disappear.

The brain's folds and grooves continue to develop and become more distinct.

The heart rate drops to about 140 beats per minute.

Baby experiences more time in rapid eye movement (REM) sleep.

Eyes and eyelashes continue to develop and can secrete tears.

Baby develops sucking, limb moving, breathing, coughing, and hiccuping abilities.

Muscles develop, become stronger, and more toned.

