

Let Your Children Have Fun With A Parachute

Sea waves

Divide the children into two teams and let them hold the parachute firmly from opposite sides. For the waves to be formed, one team has to stand while the other has to sit and alternate subsequently. They can continue with this for as long as they want.

Alligator alligator

The children have to lie on their backs and place the parachute on top of them. Let them spread across the entire chute and hold it firmly. The task is to slowly crawl like an alligator, with the parachute on top.

Color quiz

Place the parachute evenly on a flat surface. The adult must announce a color, and the children have to identify that specific shade on the chute and jump or crawl to that color.

Fruit partners

An adult has to assign fruit names to the players in a sequence, ensuring one fruit is assigned to two players. The players hold up the parachute and slowly move it up and down. When the name of the fruit is called out, the players with that name have to switch places and hold the parachute before it touches the ground.
