

Is Jelly-Like Vaginal Discharge

A Sign Of Labor?

Some mucus may come out of the cervix in general.

Repeated jelly-like discharge before term requires medical attention.

The discharge can be associated with uterine contractions.

Mucus discharge close to the due date can be a sign of labor.

A cervical exam may cause jelly-like discharge in the early weeks.

References

- Mucus Plug; Cleveland Clinic