

Dos And Don'ts Of Icebreakers

Dos

- Start your group sessions with the help of icebreaker questions.
- Maintain consistency while asking questions.
- Give everyone in the group a chance to talk and share their answers.
- Share your answers as well, from time to time to help others know you better.
- Ask questions that help keep the conversation going.

Don'ts

- Force anyone to answer.
- Just stick with one icebreaker question for the whole game.
- Rush in with your answer when people are taking the time to think.
- Ask questions that might affect the mood or hurt someone's personal beliefs.
- Come up with questions at the last moment, as it might appear to be rushed and vague.
