

Infant Formula:

Precautions To Take

Consult your pediatrician before starting or switching a formula.

Make sure the product is fresh and within its 'best before' date.

Keep the formula bottles clean and sterilized.

Wash your hands with soap and water before preparing the formula.

Prepare the formula as per the directions of the manufacturer or as specified by the pediatrician.

If the baby shows any allergic reaction, discontinue and look for a new product.

Do not give refrigerated formula milk; always make a fresh one.

Discard any leftover formula. Do not save it for later.
