

How To Know If He Loves But Doesn't Say It?

He holds your hand casually while walking and smiles more than usual around you.

He listens to you intently and takes an interest in your hobbies.

He is not judgemental, so you can confide in him without hesitation.

He wants your advice on important decisions and values your opinions.

He doesn't force you and respects your boundaries, especially regarding intimacy and wanting space.

He proudly introduces you to his friends and family.

