

She May Be Hiding Her Love For You If...

She smiles or laughs a lot when she is around you.

She wants to keep in touch throughout the day, and so she sends goodnight and good morning messages.

She doesn't shy away from flirting with you either over texts or through her body language, such as brushing her hands with yours or getting closer.

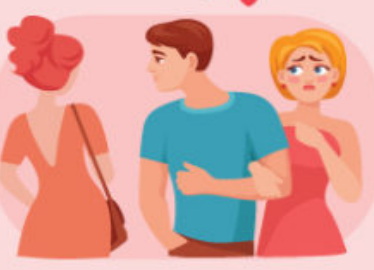

She is honest and vulnerable with you. She will not hold back on showing her habits of eating or talking and will not pretend.

She looks into your eyes and wants to impress you with her qualities.

She gets jealous when other girls flirt or get too comfortable with you or if it's you who's flirting with someone else.

She remembers every little detail about your conversations and things that you casually slip in.

She wants to take care of you and always defends you.

