

Examples Of Empathetic Behaviors – In Children –

They automatically smile whenever you jump in excitement or get good news, even if they are unaware of what it is.

They get emotional upon seeing a sad or touching movie or real-life scenes, such as someone else's crying out of sadness or happiness.

They take care of their toys as real people, such as wiping them off and tending to their wounds if they drop them during pretend play.

They ask you if you are hurt whenever they see you sad or bump against something.

They agree to play the games they don't usually enjoy but do it for the sake of their friends.

They comfort you with a blanket or a hug if they see you shivering in the cold.
