

You Know You Should
Save Your Relationship
When....

You still care for your partner no matter how challenging your relationship looks.

You are sensitive about each other's needs.

You and your partner are willing to make small changes to make the relationship work.

You still feel safe with your partner.

You continue to communicate your feelings to your partner.

The idea of moving apart makes you feel uncomfortable.