

Tips For Selecting

Toys

For 15-Month-Olds

Look for toys that can pique their interest and attention.

Choose toys that can promote sensory development, such as sensory toys.

Pick the toys that promote specific skills you want to nurture in your child.

Ensure that the parts of the toys are not too small to avoid choking hazards.

Make sure the toys have no sharp or rough edges to prevent accidents.

Choose toys made of baby-friendly materials, free of BPA, toxins, lead, and other toxic chemicals.

Opt for soft stuffed toys to prevent any injuries.

Choose lightweight toys with sturdy build for rough use for a longer time.
