

Is

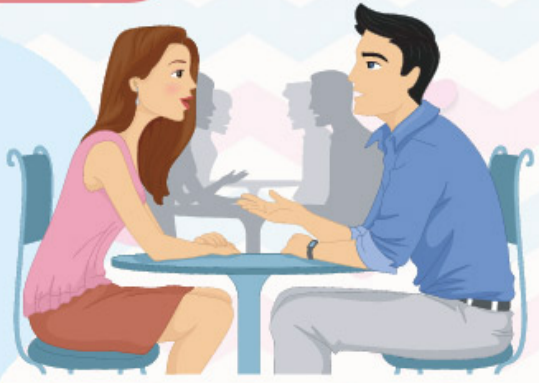

Speed Dating

For You?

The Pros

You get to meet different people in a short period.

It saves you time if you are too busy to socialize.

It is pocket-friendly since you don't spend much on the date.

There is no guilt in rejecting the person since it is accepted in this process.

The Cons

You may like or dislike a person primarily based on physical appearance only.

The short time may not be enough to assess the compatibility.

It may feel like pressure to wrap up interaction with one person quickly.

If you decide on a relationship solely based on speed dating, you may not know the person enough to make the relationship successful.

