

Six-Month Pregnancy Symptoms

You may gain 3-4lb weight.

The growing uterus might increase the chances of constipation.

Progesterone hormone can slow down digestion and cause gas.

You may experience nosebleeds due to increased blood circulation and pressure on blood vessels.

Morning sickness may be minimal and lead to increased food cravings.

Weight gain and edema can cause aching feet.

The cervix and vaginal walls soften during pregnancy, causing white discharge to prevent bacteria from entering the uterus.
