

The Right Things To Do When A Married Man Flirts With You

Control your emotions. Don't let your longing for love make you vulnerable to his charm.

Mention his wife frequently during conversations to understand what led to him flirting with you.

Tell him that you don't want to be involved in an affair, and make it clear that this is not going anywhere.

Don't exchange contact details. If you already did, cut off all ties and better block his contact number.

He may seek sympathy by trash-talking about his wife, but it is not your responsibility to comfort him.

If you cannot resist him, count his flaws, such as he's a married man flirting with another woman, and it can happen to you too.

