

Facts About Chemical Pregnancy

A chemical pregnancy is not a sign of infertility.

Pregnancy loss occurs when the embryo stops growing.

There can be a positive pregnancy test followed by late menstruation.

It can be a positive test followed by a negative test after a few weeks.

There is no treatment for a chemical pregnancy.

It does not affect the chance of having a successful pregnancy and healthy baby in the future.

Reference

1. Chemical Pregnancy; Cleveland clinic