

Your Baby's

Lip Quivering

May Not Be Concerning If

Their lips quiver only while crying

It occurs only for a few seconds and stops on its own

Their lips quiver only when they are startled. You may try to minimize their exposure to sudden and loud noises

It does not happen often

A word of caution

Before you dismiss your baby's lip quivering as normal, consider their medical history, additional symptoms, or current illnesses. If any of these persist, it's better to consult a doctor to rule out any underlying issue